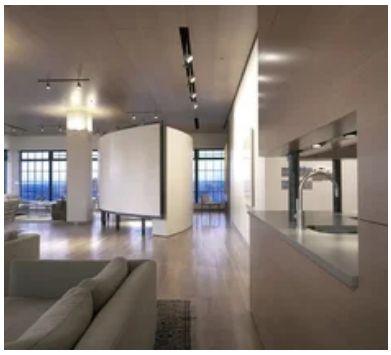
Houzz Call: Show Us Your Thanksgiving Fails »

We've all had holidays like these: The dog eats the turkey drippings before you can make the gravy; your husband cuts his hand with a knife while chopping onions and has to go to the emergency room just before the big meal;... more »

Design Workshop: How to Separate Space in an Open Floor Plan »

The open floor plan — championed by early modernists Le Corbusier, Mies van der Rohe and Walter Gropius, among others — is as relevant today in home design as it was in the early 20th century. But modern life still requires,... more »



A 1970s Avion Camper Gets a New Groove »

Bill and Cathy Johnson love camping. The architect and Realtor have been doing it since they began dating at age 15. Now married for 34 years, they jumped at the chance to buy and restore a 1970s Avion camper that they could... more »

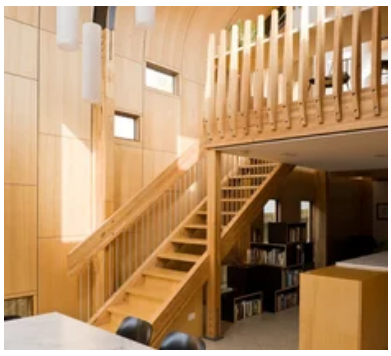
When interior designer Kelly McGuill visited her client, a close friend, in her home near Boston to help her make plans for her other home on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, she looked around the living room and realized something... more »

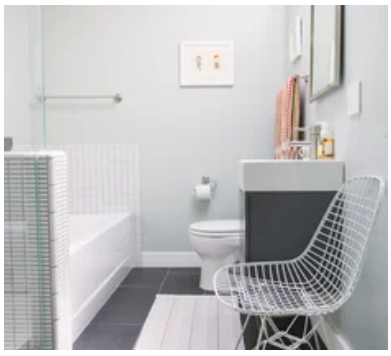
Houzz Tour: A Sun-Soaked Solution for a Narrow Site »

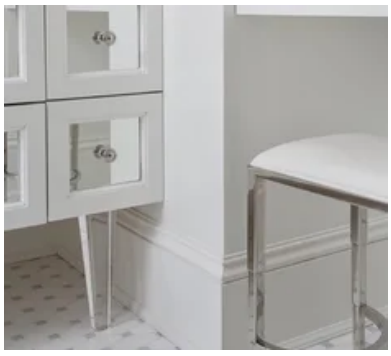
After living for years in a small unit, architects Tim Hill and Dominique Ng dreamed of building a home of their own. With the existing derelict house demolished, so began a joyful and exhilarating journey to make the most... more »



Bathroom Workbook: 5 Ways to Open Up a Windowless Bathroom »

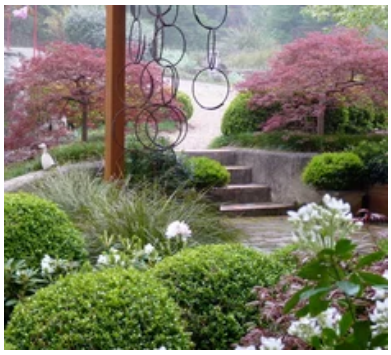
When planning the interior architecture of a home, whether it's a cozy house, a slick condo, or something in between, usually the bathroom is one of the last places to get precious window real estate. That leaves many of... more »

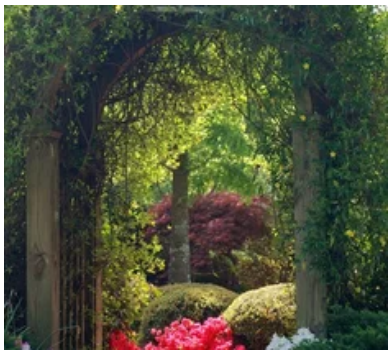




Dream Spaces: A Secret Garden of Your Own »

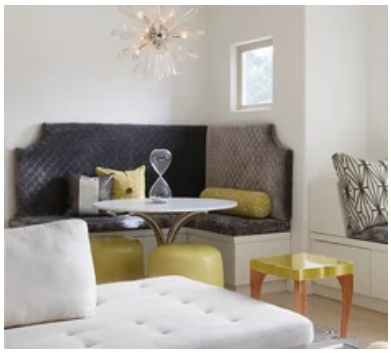
I've been hooked on the idea of a secret garden ever since reading the novel The Secret Garden, by Frances Hodgson Burnett, and seeing the 1993 film adaption starring Maggie Smith and John Lynch. Many of us, unfortunately,... more »





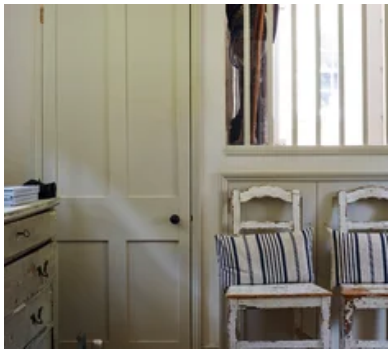
Room of the Day: Multipurpose Design Brings a Room to Life »

Interior designer Elena Calabrese took one space and made it a family room, game room, media center and home office. In truth, it was never supposed to be more than a living room. “This was a spec house,” she says. “And... more »



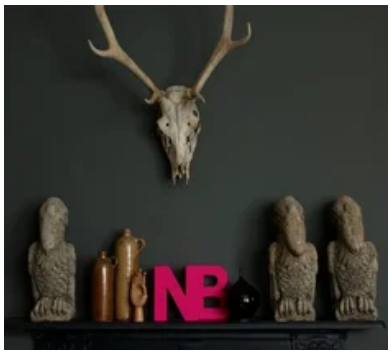
My Houzz: Beautifully Tucked Away in Somerset »

As the creative director of housewares and clothing company Cabbages & Roses, Christina Strutt has a natural eye for creating an English country look. So the restoration and redecoration of this beautiful country home,... more »



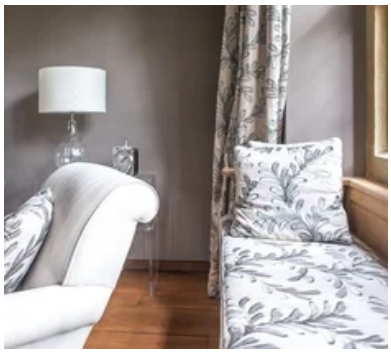
12 Inspiring Ways to Decorate a Mantelpiece »

The mantelpiece is an integral part of all but the most contemporary fireplaces, and for centuries we have been using this built-in shelf as a place to show off treasured items. In the past a clock in the middle flanked by... more »



Houzz Tour: New Comforts in the Cotswolds »

This house on the edge of the Cotswolds, England, was originally designed in 1911 by Mackay Hugh Baillie Scott, a prominent architect during Britain's Arts and Crafts movement. Determined to restore the historic home while... more »

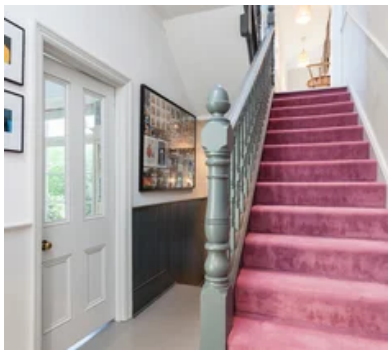


The Garden Edge: Rethink Your Garden Pathways »

With careful planning and planting, your garden pathways and borders can be transformed from ordinary thoroughfares to dynamic spaces that can make a statement and excite the senses. Here are my favorite tips for planting... more »

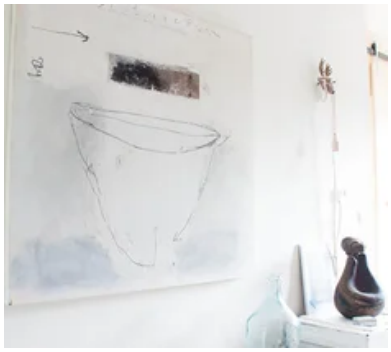
My Houzz: Light Emerges in a Dark Victorian House »

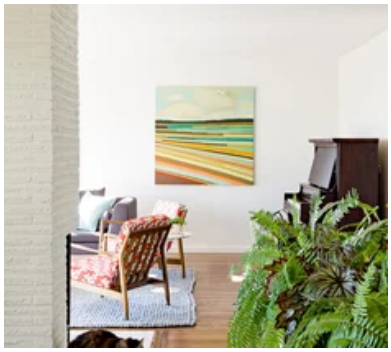
When Beth Dadswell and her family moved into their Victorian semidetached house in West Dulwich, in southeast London, in 2011, they were excited about living in a historic building again. They were leaving behind a 1960s... more »



9 Reasons to Buy a Painting »

There's no doubt that buying prints and posters is fun (and affordable) — but there's a lot to be said for saving up for a piece of one-of-a-kind art. If you've been sticking with framed prints, let these 10 reasons... more »





Houzz Tour: Bold Modern Update to a Miami Mediterranean »

This family's 1990s Mediterranean-style home outside Miami was looking tired. After seeing what the design team at DKOR Interiors had done for friends in the same model house as theirs, the family hired the team to update... more »

Grow a Beautiful Fall Garden in a Pot »

I don't know about you, but where I live (USDA zone 6) it's been a long, hot, dry summer. With triple-digit temperatures for most of the summer, my containers look worse for the wear. I'm starting to dream of cooler... more »
